Laura-Doe's Vaudeville of the Vulva makes its UK Fringe debut in Brighton in May. This hilarious one-woman cabaret provides the sex ed we should have had at school but, sadly, didn't.

Written and performed by award-winning Australian sexologist, Laura-Doe, it is illuminating, transformative, musical theatre for owners and lovers of vaginas.

Featuring canny characters and unusually vocal velvet vulvae, the production takes the baton from Eve Ensler's Vagina Monologues as a catalyst for conversation and social change around the sensitive topic of sexuality.

"For many people, female genitals are hard to name accurately, if at all, and remain shrouded in mystery." says comedian, singer/songwriter Laura-Doe. "The show is a series of light-hearted sketches that inform whilst entertaining. However its motivation is also serious, seeking to gently lift taboos, using comedy and song to release tension and create the freedom to speak about and appreciate this much maligned and misunderstood body area."

Vaudeville of the Vulva's four free fringe shows are curated by Laughing Horse Comedy in the Caroline of Brunswick at 10.45pm on 10, 11, 17 & 18th May. Audiences can expect to be greeted by a passionate and eccentric 'Yoniversity' professor. Aided by a dazzling array of international guests she leads us giggling, gasping and singing into a deeper appreciation of her particular research niche.

The UK theatre premiere of the show will be June 4-8 at the Bread & Roses Theatre, Clapham, London. Laura-Doe is also offering her Absolutely Vulvalicious® workshop on female arousal and libido at Unity Studio, Brighton on 12th May.
